 Sticky knowledge
	Time zones are divided by imaginary lines called meridians which run from the North Pole to the South Pole. Countries to the east of the Prime Meridian are ahead of Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) by up to 14 hours. Countries to the west of the Prime Meridian are behind Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) by up to 12 hours.
	Many of the socio-economically developed countries are located in the northern hemisphere, with most of the developing countries in the southern hemisphere. Developing countries tend to have higher levels of unemployment, have high birth and death rates and lower life expectancy; tend to generate more income from service sector e.g. tourism; tend to have a lower standard of living; tend to have an unequal distribution of wealth; tend to have a higher illiteracy rate.
	Economic activities include making, selling, providing, purchasing, distributing and consuming good and services. This can be done through Trade involves the buying and selling of goods and services between two parties - Import means buying goods or services into the country from abroad. Export is the action of selling goods and services to another country.
	Fairtrade is a way of buying and selling products that allows the farmers to be paid a fair price for their produce and have better working conditions.
	Countries with mineral resources (coal, oil, diamonds) are more likely to develop quicker as they can sell these for profit. Gold and Diamonds are mined in Ghana. Tin, iron ore and diamonds can be found in Brazil. Coal and natural resources can be found in the UK and Italy.
	Ports and industrial areas have strong links to economic growth. Ports allow for travel between different countries. Industrial areas and ports provide jobs. Some large ports in the UK include: The Port of Tyne, Port of Liverpool, Port of Hull and the Port of Grimsby.
	To analyse is examine something in detail.
	To draw a conclusion we consider evidence and theory and make up our own mind based on these ideas.
	To present to a specific audience, we have to understand who the audience is and what messages we want to give.
